Amazon to Open New Pickup Location in Storrs Center

Amazon Student and Amazon Prime members will get Free One-Day Pickup on millions of items when shipped to the Amazon pickup location.

This will be the first Amazon pickup location in Connecticut.

Apr. 28, 2016 – Amazon (NASDAQ: AMZN) today announced a new fully staffed pickup location near the University of Connecticut campus. The Amazon pickup location, the first in Connecticut, offers the UConn community a convenient location to pick up and return Amazon orders, including virtually everything one needs for life on campus, from everyday essentials to technology.

Opening in Summer 2016, this nearly 4,000-square-foot space will be located at 40 Wilbur Cross Way in Storrs Center, centrally located near the university and easily accessible to students and the greater Storrs community. Additionally, Amazon Student and Prime members will receive Free One-Day Pickup on millions of items. To learn more about Amazon Student, visit amazon.com/joinstudent.

“We are excited to bring an Amazon pickup location to the UConn and greater Storrs community,” said Ripley MacDonald, Director of Amazon Student Programs. “Whether students are ordering college essentials, electronics or snacks, Amazon will provide a convenient and secure spot for them to pick up their stuff at hours that work with their schedules.”

Since 2015, Amazon has opened staffed pickup locations at the following universities: Purdue University, University of Massachusetts Amherst, and University of California, Berkeley, as well as in the college communities of University of California, Santa Barbara, and University of Cincinnati. Amazon will also open more locations in 2016, including: University of Pennsylvania, University of California, Davis, The University of Texas at Austin, The Georgia Institute of Technology and California State University, Long Beach, as well as in the college community of University of Akron.

Storrs Center is a mixed-use town center and main street corridor at the crossroads of the Town of Mansfield, Connecticut and the University of Connecticut. Located along Storrs Road adjacent to the University, the Town Hall, the regional high school, and the community center, Storrs Center knits thoughtful architecture, pedestrian-oriented streets, and public spaces into a series of small neighborhoods that make up the new fabric of the town center. Ground floor retail and commercial uses opening onto landscaped sidewalks reinforce traditional street front activity and is supported by residences and shared community spaces.
